Dear Arthur:

It is with the greatest of regret that I find it impossible to meet and greet you while here.

I have just returned home from six weeks in Lakeside Hospital; and in a rather weakened condition.

I had looked forward for weeks and months to your visit here and now to be deprived of even seeing you is most regrettable, but I am sure you will be well taken care of by my colleagues in our Rotary Club.

I just received a letter this moment from William MacMillan of Holt-Renfrew & Company in which he corroborates the story I have told you before regarding the bringing about of the rebirth of your Club.

Very cordially yours,

Arch.
